Transitions and Underlayment...

BlueLinx offers several different True Match laminate mouldings and trim options in four popular shapes, designed to fit most flooring needs.

T-Moulding

Reducer

Stair Nose

Quarter Round

T-Moulding - transition used to bridge the expansion between laminate flooring or carpet of equal height.

Reducer - used to make the transition from the laminate flooring height to a flooring system of lesser height such as vinyl or tile.

Stair Nose - transition for all applications to a lower level. Used for installation on stairs.

Quarter Round - transition used to provide expansion area coverage at the perimeter walls in those situations where the existing wall base will remain in place.

BlueLinx high quality underlayment serves as the barrier between the flooring and the sub floor.

Its purpose is to provide cushion between the floor and the sub floor to muffle sound (important for above ground installations) and to block moisture from getting to the floor (especially important when installing over a concrete sub floor). Luxury Vinyl Plank does not require underlayment since the product is made with 100% virgin vinyl products.
